The American State Council of New York, or rather the political notables of the party, met at Albauy a few days ago, and had a warm disenssion principally on the subject of time in regard to holding a State nominating Convenion. Only about two hundred Councils oct of the twelve hundred formerly existing in the State, were represented. The Council finally legided by a vote of 163 to 65, to send two delegates from each Assembly district to a Convention to meet at Syracuse on the 8th of September, the day and place of holding the Republican State Convention. The resolutions adopted, says the Buffalo Express, declare the adherence of the party to the Binghampton platform; pitch into the Konsas policy of the President; favor a Registry Lav; the use of the Bible as a text book in our Common Schools; the completion and protection of the State Canals, and declare their willingness to co operate with those entertaining the same views, and to work for the same end.

The Wheat Trade.

Judging from the figures and footings shown us by one of our leading produce dealers as the form teams upon our streets, we estimate that not less than $30,000 were poid directly into the hands of our farmers for grain delivered at this point alone, while we hear favorable accounts of a like "good work going on" at other actions of a like good work going on" at other attribute of the busy brain. But in all the different ways Life has been likened to almost everything, and has been looked upon in as many different ways as it could be turned by Fancy's shuttle in the rattling loom of the busy brain. But in all the different ways Life has been likened to almost everything, and has been looked upon in as many different ways as it could be turned by Fancy's shuttle in the rattling loom of the busy brain. But in all the different ways Life has been presented to you, have you ever seen it compared to a stocking? If not, pause a moment and listen. At first the stocking is not a stocking in the rattling loom of the bus and waiting to be reeled off. Sometimes to be sure the yarn is clouded, mixed, and even grey, but with care it will all knit in and nicely blend together. There are no breaks, no tangles in it now as you look at it ere it starts upon its course, but the thread is frail, the needles may send or break, and a steady hand must guide them, and a steady eye must watch them now their life-work is begun. Look at the stocking and look at the life stitch by stitch do they progress, and how nicely are those stitches all linked together, Chief Marskel-Foster Follett, of Sandusky held by a single slight thread—the thread of the stocking and the thread of life-and yet so long as the thread is unbroken so long will the stitches hold together. But see !- there is a stitch dropped, the thread broken and tied again, and it leaves an ugly sear-a knot-a mended life. The stitch dropped may be smoothed over, the broken thread mended, but the stocking and the life are marred; the first mis-stitch is made, the first warning given. There is magic music in the click of the knitting needles when plied with nimble fingers, and there is music too in the click of Time's knitting needles as he knits away at the young life, now a laughing, merry strain, and again one mournful as a dirge. Sometimes the knitting needles grow rusty DROUTH AND GRASSHOPPERS.—We learn that and the half-knit stocking is laid away; but the grasshoppers are very destructive in several hands that held the needles first grew tired, were folded over the still breast, and laid to rest when the stocking and the life were only half

There is a great deal of segming in the stocking, and so there is in life; more seeming than doing, the best foot put forward, the bright side out, and the seam stitches uppermost.

There is the widening, too-the stocking himself. Mr. Knapp, like Breslin, finds it convenient to be absent.

Newspaper Property in New York.—It is stated that one tenth of the New York Trainner than a count of grain has been bought in the same space of time. TAYLOR, GRISWOLD & CC.

All along the stocking and the life there are black, red and white threads-those are way-marks. When you were knitting the stocking your mother put those threads in that she might know when your stent was completed, your "ten times round" knit, and you could easily pull them out again; but in the woof of life they are firmly woven, and if you brush the dust away they are as plain as ever; you try to pull them out, but in vain. In the stocking those way-marks are only breads, but in the life they are great joys, and griefs; graves which draw you down to earth where hopes and hearts are buried, and jewels that draw you up to Heaven-yea, even jewels in our Father's easket. As you glance back on the way you have ome even to the casting on of those first lifestitches, you see a great many knots mended but not hidden, a great many stitches dropped, the thread held loosely till kinked and tangled, many needles rusted and broken, and a great many way-marks you would gladly brush with The knitting goes on, the ball of yarn grows smaller, the life dwindles away, the stocking is almost done-then comes the toeing off, the

through and broken, and the stocking and the life are done!
